College Admission Tips

- It's okay to apply to colleges before you've made a final choice. You need several options to choose from when selecting a college, and applying early helps ensure you're a good fit.
- It's wise to apply to more than one school. Make sure at least one is a school where you know you'll be admitted, can pay for it, and feel you fit. Most students apply to between two and five colleges.
- You want to represent yourself in the best manner possible, so be sure that your online profiles (Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, etc.) show the positive decisions you make.
- Talk to your teachers and counselor about your plans for college. They can help you through the application process and ensure that you have everything you need to complete admission to the colleges you choose.
- Visiting a college campus is the single best way to determine if a college is right for you. Use college visit days or school breaks to visit different campuses. When you're there, ask lots of questions! For more helpful hints, visit http://www.ucango2.org/publications/student/Making_Most_of_Campus_Visits.pdf
- Don't let finances keep you from applying. You may be eligible for scholarships or other financial aid that may help you afford college. If you have questions, talk with your parents or counselor to explore different options. You can also visit https://secure.okcollegestart.org/Financial_Aid_Planning/default.aspx to learn the basics about paying for college.

It's okay to feel confused about admissions and financial aid. Your teachers and school counselor can give you tons of help during this process.

- How can you contribute to diversity?

- Discuss some issue of personal, local, national or international concern and its importance to you.
- Indicate a person who has had a significant influence on you, and describe that influence.
- Describe a character in fiction, a historical figure or a creative work (as in art, music, science, etc.) that has had an influence on you, and explain that influence.
- A range of academic interests, personal perspectives and life experiences adds much to the educational mix. Given your personal background, describe an experience that illustrates what you would bring to the diversity in a college community, or an encounter that demonstrated the importance of diversity to you.
- What is one of the most important decisions you will ever have to make in your lifetime? Explain why the decision is so important and the way your decision will impact you and others.

TIP: It's possible that you can use some of the essays you submit on your college applications again—when you apply for scholarships. Be sure to keep all of your essays stored on a thumb drive so they will be easy to revise and send in with your next application.

Admission Application Checklist

It's important to gather all of the information you'll need before you begin the application process. In order for you to be well-prepared on College Application Day, review the following list for items you'll need to complete most college admission applications.

TIP: A good way to ensure you have all of the biographical information you'll need is to print off a copy of your selected college's application and fill it out on paper before applying online. Keep a copy of your "practice application" in a safe place so you'll have it handy when you need it.

- Your own biographical information. Colleges will ask you questions like name, address, valid email address, telephone number, etc. You must know your Social Security number! If you don't have it memorized, be sure to bring it with you on College Application Day. You'll also need it when you fill out your Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).
- Your parents' biographical information. Because you're still considered a minor, colleges need to know about your parents when you apply. Be sure to know where they work, whether they went to college, and, if they did, where they went. Valid email addresses and phone numbers for your parents are also necessary.
- ACT/SAT score. Colleges use your ACT or SAT score to determine how prepared you are to attend their college. Be sure to have a copy of your highest or most recent score with you on College Application Day. If you need a copy of your report, your school counselor can help you get it.
- High school transcript. Colleges need to review the work you've done in high school. Be sure to have your school counselor send your college an official copy of your transcript. (Note: If your ACT or SAT score is printed on your transcript, you may not have to submit your test score separately.)

- ❑ College résumé. College résumés are a great way to illustrate how active you are in clubs, organizations and your community. Have yours created, edited and on hand the day you submit your college application(s).
 - ❑ College admission essay. Many colleges evaluate students' writing abilities by requiring a college admission essay with their application. Never submit a college essay unless you've revised it and had someone you trust (a parent, peer, teacher or counselor) read it and give you feedback. You want this to be an example of your best work, so make sure it's polished!

TIP: Because you'll need your college résumé and admission essay on hand when you submit your application online, you may want to save both documents to a thumb drive to bring with you on College Application Day.

- ❑ Letters of Recommendation. Many colleges ask for letters of recommendation to learn more about you. Choose people whom you trust and feel confident can say great things about you, such as your school counselor or a favorite teacher. Don't ask a family member, since most schools want these letters to be from someone who isn't related to you. Be sure to give your references plenty of time to write and submit your letters before your application deadline. It is also wise to provide them with a copy of your college résumé so they can cite specific things you've done in your high school career.
- ❑ Payment. Some colleges still require an application fee even if you apply online. When you arrive on College Application Day, be sure to have a method of payment, such as a credit card number, for your application fee. You can find out how much the fee is by checking the school's website. If you are having problems with the admission application fee, please see your school counselor for options.

Where Do You Qualify?

Not every college is the same. Before you apply to any colleges, do your research to see if you meet the qualifications they require for admission. Keep in mind that most will accept an “either/or” list of qualifications, and provisional enrollment may be available for students who come close to certain requirements.

Oklahoma Public Colleges and Universities Tuition & Mandatory Fees Per Credit Hour for 2017-18

The cost of a college or university course is determined by the number of credit hours awarded for completing the class. Usually, one credit hour represents one hour of in-class instruction per week for 16 weeks in a specific subject. Therefore, the cost for one course is determined by multiplying the number of credit hours the class is worth by the total tuition and mandatory fees per credit hour.
